There is no fee for exhibiting any of the Robert Kaufman Collections however, the return shipping costs or charges for shipping the collection to the next exhibit location will be the responsibility of the exhibitor. In scheduling at your location, it is understood that you will ship the collections to the next exhibition by whatever method is required to insure that it is received by the required arrival date. Should your failure to ship deprive the next exhibitor of the use of the exhibit for any part of their exhibit period, you will be responsible for expenses incurred by that exhibitor for forwarding to the next location. Robert Kaufman Fine Fabrics, other sponsors, and the Quilting Events and Special Projects Director will not be responsible for loss of income due to failure to receive the exhibit.

Sincerely,
Margrit Hall
